Book Fair

Thank you to everyone who bought books from our school book fair. We have received £315.00 worth of free books for school.

Threadworms

Unfortunately, a couple of children have been diagnosed recently with threadworms. This is a common childhood illness. Threadworms infect the intestine in humans and when excreted they look like small pieces of cotton thread. Threadworm eggs can survive on all sorts of surfaces including carpets and towels. They are often passed on by poor hygiene eg by not washing your hands.

Please be extra vigilant and if you do discover your child is infected then please ensure you treat the whole family. You can get medication from either your GP or over the counter from pharmacies.
